

MODERN SLAVERY STATEMENT

2021 REVIEW

OUR BUSINESS & SUPPLY CHAINS

The company has an annual turnover of £59 Million, employing around 450 people based at its Head Office and manufacturing sites at Whitby, England, and Kilkeel, Northern Ireland.

Whitby Seafoods is a manufacturer and supplier of frozen and chilled seafood products to retail and foodservice businesses in the UK.

Over 80% of the fish we source comes from waters around the British Isles. We are supported by a partner in Vietnam for a proportion of our processing.

Other raw materials are sourced in smaller quantities from suppliers in China, Vietnam, Malaysia, Spain and Iceland.

Whitby Seafoods Ltd. is publishing this statement under the provision of the UK Modern Slavery Act 2015.

This statement refers to the financial year ended 31st December 2020.

£59 MILLION TURNOVER

450 PEOPLE DIRECTLY EMPLOYED

2 SITES

SUSTAINABILITY VALUES

SUSTAINABILITY

Care for the seas and oceans from which we source and support the people and communities who rely upon them.

Our mission is to challenge the status quo, improve value, quality and ethical standards in seafood.

Currently our focus is on;

- Sourcing responsibly.
- Promoting and supporting ethical behaviours for the people in our supply chain.
- Working legally and safely.
- Operating with minimal environmental impact.

Our raw material supply chains operate across a number of different countries. We have approximately 120 direct suppliers across all our raw material and other operational procurement. We recognise that many of our suppliers have suppliers of both material and labour. Our work has continued to focus on our direct suppliers over the last 12 months.

Modern slavery is an umbrella term used to describe offences of human trafficking, slavery, forced labour and domestic servitude. It also covers slavery-like practices such as debt bondage, sale or exploitation of children and forced or servile marriage.

All these examples involve one person depriving another person of their liberty, in order to exploit them for personal or commercial gain.

Our commitment to Human Rights is outlined in our policies which are available upon request. This is further reinforced through our membership of:

Sedex – www.sedexglobal.com

Stronger Together – www.stronger2gether.org

ORGANISATIONAL POLICIES

The company has the following policies in place to offer guidance to stakeholders and to mitigate the risk of modern slavery;

Forced, Bonded and Involuntary Labour.

Freedom of Association.

Young Workers.

Recruitment Policy.

Grievance Policy.

Anti-Bribery Policy.

Whistleblowing Policy.

Equal Opportunities Policy.

Employer Pays Principle Policy.

Remediation Procedure.

We take any allegations that human rights might have not been upheld properly with the utmost importance. We have a whistleblowing policy to give our team members in Whitby and Kilkeel the tools to report anything they feel is not right within our business. We have incorporated the whistleblowing requirements of our customers into our sites where applicable.

We believe that fair and ethical treatment of employees and workers is fundamental to our success.

As such the company is committed to following the principles of the Ethical Trade Initiative (ETI) base code and communicating this to our team members. In 2021 we continued to engage with our land based suppliers in demonstrating that they have applied the ETI base code within their operations.

RISK ASSESSMENT

Whitby Seafoods employs risk assessment methodology to identify where priorities for further consideration should be taken.

The risk assessment takes into consideration the jurisdiction country for the catch area as well as the country the fish preparation takes place. Seafish Social Risk Factors in Fisheries Profile¹ as well as the US Trafficking Persons Report 2020². The company has prioritised the sourcing of seafood as its main focus due to the nature and reported challenges in seafood sourcing.

Risk mitigation is accounted for in the risk assessment.

Risk mitigation includes;

- Direct feedback from the supplier (e.g. Sedex self-assessment).
- Involvement in multi-stakeholder efforts.
- Working towards, or achieved credible certification (e.g. ASC, Fairtrade, SMETA).
- Ability to demonstrate compliance with international law.

The most challenging aspect of seafood supply is that the primary source of supply comes from fishing boats that spend a large proportion of time out of sight. Policing these boats and evidencing ethical traceability is an industry wide challenge. The UK's adoption of ILOc188 is a significant move to help reduce the ethical risk within a large proportion of our supply chain. We fully support the implementation, effective monitoring and action around this key piece of legislation.

In recognition of the complexities of the fish supply chain we actively participate in a number of multi-stakeholder industry initiatives. By working together, we achieve transparency through the key stakeholders and approach all issues in a collaborative way ensuring proactive and responsible actions are taken whilst reducing the chance of unintended consequences.

RISK ASSESSMENT

This scheme intends to work as an assurance for crew safety and welfare on board fishing boats.

In 2021, we joined the Fishing First Safety Management Project, a collaborative project to develop safety management onboard fishing vessels to the standard of the Fishing Safety Management (FSM) Code. 50 fishing vessels have joined the project which started in the South West of England and are receiving professional support to develop their safety management practices. Auditors from the new service will be visiting the vessels and working with the owners and skippers taking part in the scheme to support them in demonstrating compliance with ILO C 188 Work In Fishing Convention by meeting the requirements of the Fishing Safety Management Code (MGN 596F). A spin-off project in Northern Ireland will take a further 10 vessels from our supply chain through the audit process and develop audit capacity in the region.

In 2021 we were able to start to track the social performance of the Fishery Improvement Projects (FIPs) that we are stakeholders of. The objective is to help FIPs reduce the risk of human and labour rights abuses and to provide a common framework for reporting on social performance in fisheries. All FIPs reporting on FisheryProgress.org are required to comply with the policy according to the phased implementation timeline. This is a key development in helping us with ethical transparency in our nephrops supply chain.

We are also members of the Seafood Ethical Action (SEA) Alliance. This body has been established by the seafood industry to provide a platform for collective engagement, to share information on emerging issues, agree best practice solutions, and provide a forum for collective pre-competitive action where it is not better fulfilled by an existing organisation.

The company promotes the application of the Sedex self-assessment tool as its primary vehicle for managing ethical trading within its land based supply chain. Whitby Seafoods will use the information provided to identify high risk suppliers and take appropriate action to drive improvement in labour standards. This includes the option of cease of supply.

1 <http://www.seafish.org/responsible-sourcing/ethics-in-seafood/assessment-of-ethical-issues>

2 <https://www.state.gov/j/tip/rls/tiprpt/>

We have developed a remediation tool internally and will collaborate with partners such as NGOs (non-government organisations), charities and law enforcement in creating effective protective measures should victims of modern slavery be identified.

The most prevalent accreditations for Whitby Seafoods' business model that include ethical approaches to labour outside UK fishing are;

- A Sedex audit undertaken by an independent 3rd party.
- Aquaculture Stewardship Council (ASC) accreditation.
- An audit conducted by Whitby Seafoods.
- A human rights impact assessment by an independent, competent 3rd party.

SEDEX

The Sedex tool allows Whitby Seafoods to view supplier self-audit questionnaire answers against set ethical criteria. This allows the business to determine if any remedial action is required with the supplier. This tool is being used widely in the UK to drive ethical standards and mitigate risk in the supply chain. Whitby Seafoods Ltd. is a member of Sedex (www.sedexglobal.com).

Sedex is home to one of the worlds largest collaborative platform for buyers, suppliers and auditors to store, share and report on information quickly and easily. The platform is used by more than 43,000 members in over 150 countries to manage performance around labour rights, health and safety, the environment and business ethics.

By way of example, the Whitby Seafoods site have repeated an independent 3rd party Ethical Audit in August 2020 against the SMETA (Sedex Members Ethical Trade Audit) standard. We have committed to repeat this exercise every 2 years as minimum. In 2021 we invited our auditing partner to return to the Whitby Site to verify the findings of the 2020 audit. In 2022, we also plan to carry out a SMETA audit at our Kilkeel site.

ASC ACCREDITATION

ASC applies a third-party certification system to its accreditation. This ensures the program is robust, credible and meets best practice guidelines for standard-setting organisations as set out by ISEAL and the FAO (Food and agricultural organisation for the United Nations). ISEAL's mission is to strengthen sustainability standards systems for the benefit of people and the environment.

The ASC standard has a section specifically to develop and operate farms in a socially responsible manner that contributes effectively to community development and poverty alleviation.

Within this there are clauses that drive minimum standards in the areas of;

- Forced and compulsory labour.
- Child labour and young workers.
- Health and safety.
- Freedom of association and collective bargaining.
- Discrimination.
- Working hours.
- Fair and decent wages.
- Labour contracts.

RISK ASSESSMENT

Audits and inspections play an important part of the due diligence system of supplier management.

Standards are used to compile evidence of compliance and identify any actions required to address any shortfalls against these. They are then prioritised into short, medium and long term action plans to show demonstrable development and continual improvement.

Audits are written to an internal standard and incorporate any customer requirements. They are an in depth look at the policies and procedures a company has and how they are applied.

Assessments are based on visual inspection and, by their nature, are based on what is seen at the time. These are utilised by Whitby Seafoods staff as part of wider supplier visits. These often look for physical signs of violations as indicated by training given.

Labour provider audits have been conducted by the Whitby HR team against internal standards without any significant deviations.

2021 proved a difficult year for physical visits to our supply partner sites. We took an approach to build upon the relationships we already formed, finding common ground through shared adversity we all faced. We understand that physical visits play a role in mitigating risk and we plan to restart our visit programme once safe to do so.

TRAINING AND AWARENESS

Our employees and suppliers play a pivotal role in helping us to ensure that modern slavery violations do not take place in our business or supply chains.

These include;

SEDEX RADAR training.

- 19 members of the Whitby Leadership team underwent online Modern Slavery Training
- Amendment and re-training of our Whistleblowing Procedure.
- Amendment of our Remediation Procedure
- Participation in the Seafish Ethics Common Language Group.

MOVING FORWARD

As outlined in this statement, we continue to build a robust system to assist us in tackling the challenges associated with modern slavery in our supply chain. In 2021 we continued to progress our Sedex onboarding programme with key 1st tier suppliers which allows us to map and understand the risk within our supply chain. In 2022, we have a plan for engagement with Sedex to expedite this process and allow us to take targeted action for most impact. We also plan to embed more best practices into job roles within the business so the risk of modern slavery are mitigated more broadly.

We will continue to enhance our internal policies where we see gaps against best practice and through stakeholder feedback to put support mechanisms in place to encourage potential victims to make themselves known.

We will continue to educate the business internally and within our supply chain. We have plans to expand our ethical awareness training into the areas of our business that have touch points with our suppliers.

We will engage with those suppliers that are flagged as red on our metrics to help them put appropriate actions in place to bring their risk rating back down.

Our UK nephrops supply base remains a focus for us going forward and our Fisheries Improvement Manager will continue to forge partnerships within the industry to help improve transparency of ethical standards on board boats within our supply base.

MEASURING SUCCESS

We assess the effectiveness of our systems with key measures. These measures will be monitored throughout 2022 and reported on annually.

	2019	2020	2021
1. Number of "Red rated" suppliers on the SEDEX platform	0	0	6
1a. % of "Amber rated" suppliers on the SEDEX platform.	51%	51%	62%
2. % of nephrops boats in our supply chain registered on the Safety folder website	32%	39%	44%
3. Number of proactive interventions made with respect to modern slavery	26	9	1
4. Number of reactive interventions made with respect to modern slavery	0	0	0

This statement has been approved by the board of directors of Whitby Seafoods Ltd. and will be updated and reviewed annually.

Daniel Whittle

Managing Director, Whitby Seafoods Ltd. March 2022

